

Procurement Opportunities Abundant for Minority Suppliers at CelebrAsian 2016

Country's Largest National Pan Asian American Business Conference Creates a Strong Platform for Innovation, Job Creation and Industry Growth

Procurement opportunities for minority suppliers were plentiful in pioneer and fast-growing industries at the CelebrAsian Procurement Conference – the annual flagship national event designed for Asian American suppliers – presented by the US Pan Asian American Chamber of Commerce Education Foundation (USPAACC), June 1 - 3 at the Hyatt Regency Atlanta, Georgia.

Hundreds of top-caliber suppliers connected with serious buyers and networked with industry leaders and visionaries at CelebrAsian – the country's largest business-to-business event convened by Pan Asian Americans to connect with large, medium and small enterprises, governments and non-profits.

UPS Chairman and CEO David Abney served as the Honorary Conference Chair. UPS Chief Information Officer Juan Perez was the Keynote Speaker.

Corporate Host Co-Chairs: The Coca-Cola Company, Nissan, SunTrust Bank and UPS. Asian American Business Co-Chairs: Ampcus and Softpath System. Legacy Co-Chairs: PepsiCo and Wells Fargo.

"We are proud to have brought CelebrAsian to Atlanta, Georgia – home to a dynamic and fast-growing Pan Asian American business community and major hub to some of the best known global brands and Fortune powerhouses," said Susan Au Allen, USPAACC National President & CEO.

The Conference theme "Today's Vision, Tomorrow's Reality: Cheers to the Next 30 Years!" speaks to the power of transformative ideas that entrepreneurs envision and reflects the promise of a new and boundless horizon as they work hard to realize their dreams.

The conference programs – especially designed to inform, educate, create procurement opportunities and propel job growth, as well as to recognize outstanding achievements – included the Chief Procurement Officers Forum, Networking

CEO's Message

Dear Friends,

As many of you know, we held our 31st annual national flagship event – CelebrAsian Procurement Conference 2016 – in Atlanta, Georgia in early June and it became abundantly clear at the outset that your participation and support helped to make our conference a true success beyond measure.

CelebrAsian is the country's largest B2B event convened by Pan Asian Americans to connect with large, medium and small enterprises, procurement professionals from federal, state and local governments, and large nonprofits. And thanks to many of you, the outpouring of superlative accolades that sang high praises from near and far was a strong validation that USPAACC's team delivered – and we delivered another one for the books!

It was our first time in The Peach State and we were impressed by the renowned Southern hospitality. But we could not have brought a Conference of this magnitude, breadth, and substance without the strong support of our Southeast Chapter, led by President Neera Bahl, her Executive team, Board Members, our Brain Trusts, Corporate and Asian American sponsors, and all those who continue to believe and support USPAACC's mission of creating economic parity, inclusion, and minority business growth in the mainstream.

At the Conference, we opened new doors to procurement opportunities for Asian American and other minority suppliers through high-level networking events, forums with precious information, and of course, our 18-year old signature one-on-one business matchmaking meetings, among other business growth events.

We have once again assembled a stellar line-up of participants – 12 Chief Procurement Officers, 8 CIO/CTOs, 94 Fortune powerhouses, 22 government agencies – and over 500 pre-scheduled one-on-one business matchmaking meetings between buyers and suppliers, across various industries targeting specific commodities for purchase.

We continued to lead from the front as the change agent to develop new solutions, uncover new opportunities for today's suppliers and build the trusted suppliers of tomorrow.

We broke new ground by building on the joint efforts we initiated in 2015 as we brought together the top leadership of NMSDC, USHCC, NGLCC and USBC at our national conference. Together with our regional educational and relationship-building programs, we are stronger advocates for growth and prosperity in the small and minority business community. Our common goals and objectives will open more opportunities to us and refresh America as we continue to join hands.

Without question, we could not have done all this without you. Thank you for your commitment, and for helping to make our vision of increasing unity a true reality.

I look forward to seeing you soon at one of our regional events!

In friendship,

Susan Au Allen

National President & CEO

Winners of this year's "Fast 100 Asian American Business" Awards

When Innovation, Adaptability and Drive Propel Enormous Business Growth

Collective revenue of $3 billion – with up to 44% growth rate – generated by companies across industries

As the spotlight was directed toward this year's winners of USPAACC's "Fast 100 Asian American Business" Awards, their ability to innovate and adapt with the indefatigable drive to succeed – despite a tepid economic landscape – also took center stage and was universally admired and celebrated.

The Fast 100 Asian American Businesses' Founders, CEOs, COOs and Presidents came from all over the country to participate in a special networking event, held in their honor, as part of USPAACC's national flagship CelebrAsian Procurement Opportunity Conference 2016 held June 1 - 3 in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Fast 100 winners' collective revenue was $3 billion, with companies reaching up to 44% growth rate in the past two years of operation.

This year's winners are of Asian Indian, Chinese, Filipino, Japanese, Korean, Pakistani, Taiwanese, and Vietnamese heritage.

The Fast 100 represent a wide array of industries, including Advertising & Marketing, Aviation, Aerospace, Architecture, Chemicals, Construction, E-Commerce, Engineering, Electronic products, Financial Services, Facility Management, Food & Beverage, Government Contracting, Healthcare, Hospitality, Information Technology, Industrial Water Purification, Janitorial Cleaning Services, Law Firm, Printing & Publishing, Staffing, Textile Importer, Renewable Energy, Telecommunications, Transportation, Pharmaceutical Distribution, Relocation, Uniforms, and Restaurant Supplies.

"Our Fast 100 Asian American Businesses truly exemplify the best and brightest in our community – as members of the small and minority business community, they are the innovators, job creators, visionaries, and industry leaders, as well as the backbone of our national economy," said Susan Au Allen, USPAACC National President & CEO. "We take great pride in shining the spotlight on their achievements and enormous business growth, despite the uncertain economic landscape."

"Our Fast 100 Asian American Businesses truly exemplify the best and brightest in our community – as members of the small and minority business community, they are the innovators, job creators, visionaries, and industry leaders, as well as the backbone of our national economy."

— Susan Au Allen, USPAACC National President & CEO

To qualify, companies must be at least 51 percent owned, controlled and managed by one or more Asian Americans (U.S. citizens or permanent residents), and with at least $1 million in annual revenue in the immediate past two fiscal years of operation. Each applicant or nominee company was ranked according to percentage revenue growth over the two-year period. ●

Minority Suppliers Learn Cutting-Edge Market Intelligence and Roadmap to Procurement Opportunities at CPO and CTO/CIO Forums

An unprecedented number of minority suppliers gathered at the filled-to-capacity CPO Forum to hear new procurement trends, opportunities, outlook and how to successfully become a part of the supply chain during CelebrAsian Procurement Conference 2016 in Atlanta, Georgia.

The panel of 12 Chief Procurement Officers from national and major global brands – who together buy $120 Billion – included AARP, Cintas, DuPont, Frito-Lay North America, Hilton Worldwide, Ingersoll Rand, MGM Resorts International, Schneider Electric, Southern Company, SunTrust Bank, UPS, U.S. Bank, and Wells Fargo.

An extended, almost two-hour networking session with the CPOs followed the Forum, which gave suppliers more time to connect with the panelists. Many suppliers in the audience welcomed this additional networking period and noted that it was a rare opportunity for them to be connecting with the CPOs, a program that is not seen at other conferences they frequently attend.

At the CTO/CIO Forum, Chief Technology Officers/Chief Information Officers from 8 of the country's largest and oldest healthcare company, as well as global brands and large utility companies, discussed the current landscape of information technology and how it affects large corporations and small and minority businesses. The panel also discussed the outlook for various industries and for the global supply chain market, the challenges, solutions and how the small and minority businesses could become an integral part of the equation.

The panelists at the CTO/CIO Forum were from McKesson Technology Solutions, AT&T, The Coca-Cola Company, Enterprise Holdings, Home Depot, Nissan North America, PGA of America, and Southern Company. 🌐

Spotlight on the Prodigious & Fearless Industry Disruptors:

Under 40 Millionaire Entrepreneurs Share Secrets to Success

Brian Wong and Alefiya Bhatia, two young visionary entrepreneurs, wowed the audience when they shared their success stories at the USPAACC/Wells Fargo Luncheon on the second day of CelebrAsian Procurement Conference held June 1 to 3, 2016 at the Hyatt Regency in Atlanta, Georgia.

Internet entrepreneur Brian Wong had his eureka moment 36,000 feet up in the air, on a plane at cruising altitude. He noticed that many of his fellow passengers were playing games on their mobile devices and the advertisements took up a huge chunk of real estate or screen space without adding any real value.

Soon thereafter, he co-founded a company that developed Kiip (pronounced "keep"), a reward-based mobile app, that many observers described as a disruptive business model and a game-changer in the highly coveted and lucrative advertising industry.

Since then, he has received several awards, including the "Forbes 30 Under" list at the age of 20; Mashable's "Top 5 Young Entrepreneurs to Watch;" Business Insider's "Top 25 Under 25 in Silicon Valley and 18 Most Important People in Mobile Advertising;" and Canada's "Top 20 Under 20," among other distinctions.

His company has established strategic partnerships with hundreds of major brands, including Amazon, Campbell's, Ford, Hasbro, Macy's, McDonald's, Pepsi, Procter & Gamble, Sony Music, Unilever, Verizon and Wrigley. Kiip is active on more than 1,100 apps played on over 75 million devices. It has offices in San Francisco, New York City, Los Angeles, Chicago, Vancouver, London, Bogota and Tokyo. The company has raised over $24 million in funding to date.

Alefiya Bhatia, another successful entrepreneur, believes that communities that are involved get higher academic and social outcomes, stronger values, and increased future success for students. Her degree in psychology and education from Emory University, along with her training and experience as a Montessori teacher, power her passion for wide-scale education improvement. It is this passion that led her to start Crescerance (pronounced "cris-seer-unc") in 2011 to enable schools to better communicate with and engage their communities through mobile applications.

She is now focusing on bringing the concepts and related app development to students as young as the 3rd grade by enabling them to build mobile apps with the newly launched MAD-learn program. 📱

▲ Discovering the Next Generation of Innovative Entrepreneurs: The top 3 winners of the instant-hit "Ideas Marketplace: What's Your Pitch?" competition gather on stage with the panel of judges, corporate sponsors, and potential investors. First place went to Duke Wong of Wrainbo, a mobile game to develop business analytic skills. Runners-up Kartik Ram of Zeitgeist Inc., produced a futuristic personal mobility device in the form of an electric bike, and Gene Eidelman of GamePlan, created a human resources-related app. 17 entrepreneurs applied from across the country, 8 made the semi-finals after a rigorous presentation and deliberation process on the first day of CelebrAsian Procurement Conference 2016 in Atlanta, Georgia.

USPAACC In Action: Nationwide Outreach

▲ Micro-Grant Recipients: 6 Asian American Chambers from across the country were awarded the Wells Fargo micro-grant to build capacity and expand their existing programs.

USPAACC and Wells Fargo Launch Micro-Grant Program to Help Expand Capacity of Chambers Nationwide

USPAACC and Wells Fargo awarded $70,000 in grants to local Chambers nationwide to build capacity and expand their existing program that serves their members. This was a continuation of the Microgrant Program launched last year.

The 2016 winners were: Greater Austin Asian Chamber of Commerce; USPAACC-Northeast; Asian American Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City; USPAACC-Southeast; Hmong Wisconsin Chamber of Commerce and USPAACC-Southwest. They were officially announced during USPAACC 31st Anniversary & CelebrAsian Procurement Conference at the USPAACC/Wells Fargo Luncheon on June 2 at the Hyatt Regency in Atlanta, Georgia.

Through a rigorous selection process, the winners were chosen through demonstrated outstanding overall chamber strength, community presence and membership growth.

“We are pleased to once again join forces with Wells Fargo to provide yet another platform for business and job growth on the local, state, and regional levels,” said Susan Au Allen, USPAACC National President & CEO. “USPAACC and Wells Fargo have been longtime partners since 2002 and Wells Fargo’s support of and commitment to our mission, underscores the mutually beneficial relationship we have developed over these years. It has been a win-win-win situation for Wells Fargo, USPAACC and our constituents.”

“Wells Fargo has a rich history of supporting our diverse chambers of commerce, and we share their commitment to helping the small business owners they serve to succeed financially,” said Lisa Stevens, Regional Marketing, Small Business and Pacific Midwest Bank Executive.

“Through this partnership with USPAACC, Wells Fargo is proud to provide funding that will support chamber-led entrepreneur training programs. This partnership allows Wells Fargo to provide dedicated resources for education, growth and advancement of diverse business owners in communities across America,” Stevens added. 🌐

Michael Chan, the recipient of the 2009 USPAACC Scholarship, came back as the featured speaker to share his success story and to provide inspiration to this year's scholars. A former U.S. Marine who served two tours of duty in Fallujah, Iraq, Michael received his B.A. in Film Production from the University of Southern California's School of Cinematic Arts and is now a Directing Fellow at the American Film Institute.

"We continue to invest in our scholars and in the community because it is the right thing to do for America," said USPAACC National President & CEO Susan Au Allen. "We are proud of their accomplishments and we wish them all a bright future." 🌟

▲ You could hear a pin drop: College scholarship recipients Raiden Domingo of Hawaii and Bernadeta Kolo-Johnson of West Virginia share their inspiring stories of triumph over adversity at CelebrAsian Procurement Conference in Atlanta, Georgia.

USPAACC and Denny's Partner on Academic Scholarship Program

USPAACC has once again partnered with Denny's Hungry for Education (HFE) to help deserving high school and college students in the fight against childhood hunger.

Denny's HFE program awards over $50,000 in scholarships to high school and college students in various areas around the country. Denny's estimates that 22% of U.S. children under age 18 live in poverty and struggle every day with hunger, which holds them back from striving to do their best in school.

This year, Jayce Yu of Burlington, New Jersey, received a $3,000 scholarship through HFE.

Since 1989, USPAACC has given annual financial assistance totaling over $1 million to outstanding college-bound high school seniors. The scholarships are funded by Asian Americans and Corporations under the aegis of USPAACC. 🌟
